

A magician read about an old lamp.
'Rub this,' he read, 'And a genie appears. He can do anything for you!'

His magic ball said, 'The lamp is in a cave in China. And only this boy can get it.'

The magician went to China to look for the boy.
And a year later he found him.

‘That’s Aladdin,’ a girl told him. ‘His father’s dead. He and his mother are poor because Aladdin doesn’t do any work.’

The magician visited Aladdin’s house. He smiled at Aladdin’s mother and said, ‘I am your husband’s brother. I can help you. Look! Here is some money.’

‘Oh, Aladdin!’ cried his mother. ‘This is your uncle. Run and get some food!’

‘Your son must have work,’ said the magician. ‘He can work for me.’

Aladdin’s mother was happy to hear this. But Aladdin wasn’t happy because he didn’t like work.
